GV Duplex Net Weigh Bagging Scale

Fischbein Success Story

“Our Inglett 8800-GVD bagging scale is faster and more accurate than our previous bagger, and that results in more production and less product giveaway.”

– Darwin Smith, General Manager, Riverwest Processing Inc.

Problem

Our existing bagging scale used a single wide vibratory feed tray for both bulk and trim feed. The scales system was inaccurate and too slow to support our business growth.

Solution

We installed an Inglett 8800 series net weigh duplex bagging scale with gravity bulk feed for speed and a narrow vibratory feeder for accuracy. Thanks to the Inglett 8800-GVD, we have increased our capacity, and we have eliminated bag overfills, thus saving money.

Benefits

- Up to 12 BPM @ 110 lbs. in-shell
- +/- 1/10th of 1 pound deviation
- Soft close to avoid product breakage
- Custom vibratory feeder for in-shell and shelled nuts
- Fast setup/changeover with 250 product codes

The Story

A Better Way to Package
In-shell and Shelled Almonds

Riverwest Processing has grown into one of the largest nut processors in California by consistently providing our customers with the highest-quality products. Our packaging equipment reflects the standards to which we are committed. We chose the Inglett 8800-GVD net weigh bagging scale for its speed and accuracy. The scale software automatically calibrates the scale and adjusts for product-density weight changes. An important design feature in our choice of the Inglett product was the independent mounting of the hoppers from the weigh scales, a key design element that ensures weight accuracy. Since the installation of the 8800-GVD, we have increased our production capacity while minimizing product giveaway and reducing our labor costs.
